Research Areas:

I've been an English/ Art/ Couture teacher for more than 14 years, with one year as a part-time English Lecturer at a higher institute. I usually teach English, Literature, Geography or History from Grades 8 to 12,, as a class teacher mostly. I also teach IELTS . I teach oil/ watercolor painting for displays. I also taught fashion from grades 8 to 11. I am able to teach English Literature at GCSE level. I can sculpt or teach Fine Arts or Aestheistic Philosophy. I became the Accelerated Reading Co-ordinator of the school in charge of the government reading program for primary and secondary school, subscriptions or purchasing for the school library, and selecting software teaching for the English department. I wrote the English Curriculum for two schools, one for both the primary and secondary school and the other for its secondary.

For further research projects, I'm interested in conducting future research projects about Neurolinguistics, Bilingualism and Multilingualism, or the Linguistics of Other European Languages such as Portuguese or Russian or French as these differ a lot in speech as in Phonology or Phonemes. I'm also interested in Linguistic syntaxes, semantics and morphology&morphemes. I learnt a lot about Middle French as well as Middle Italian, which is more like Shakespearean contemporary Italian language, which facilitates my own understanding of the various European languages, especially as to historical shift of vocabulary of these languages. Learning Latin and Greek enables me to have a greater understanding of the etymology of the English language. In the future I would like to write about Linguistics in these areas.

Other subject interdisciplinary areas of which I would like to write about are Moral&Ethics, Christian Studies, Theology, Christian Denominations, Religious Philosophy, Education, Pedagogy, Curriculum Design, Education Administration, Christian Art, Christian Art History, Christian Sacred Writings, Fine Arts in a Christian context, Translation Theories and the translation of both sacred and literary texts of European languages.

As a new comer to Belgium, I shall set it as a goal to learn to speak French to communicate.
